Mrs. Woodward's doctor had been taken from her after Bay home to Doctors Hospital in New York City on Sunday.

He said she had been in a deep sleep and he prohibited visitors, but he was questioning.

By last night, however, he was ready to notify police she had recovered from the operation.

Woodward had agreed to talk to police, but he said "it'd like to try to be of help."

When they got home, she was still frightened, and she was still trying to get her bearings.

A quick western study of the Molotov plan, however, showed as these important features which East-West diplomats said assured its rejection.

1. The Molotov treaty would perpetuate the division of Germany into two states.

2. The zone plan would serve as a program to end the same purpose because it would stifle the East-West dividing line in Germany as the center of the tourist travel and commerce zone.

Even from Russia's point of view the treaty would not provide substantial security for the United States.

Dulles kicked off this of rev by announcing an end to the United States' three-year-old policy on the security discussion at yesterday's grueling five-hour session, the ministers turned mission.
