

Rank Discrimination The South D In GOP Eisel

By CONGRESSMAN THOMAS G. ABERNETHY of Northeast Mississippi... The south, comprising more than one-fourth of the nation, is entitled to representation in the cabinet of any President...

These Days Third Power in the Making?

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY... As one reads Harry Truman's autobiography, it becomes increasingly clear that while experts may know, it is not guaranteed that they can be trusted...

'This Deep, It's Politics--This Deep It's Suicide'

PETER EDSON'S COLUMN

Predict Use Atomic Power Arrive Slowly

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The Washington Atomic Energy Commission is predicting that the use of atomic power will arrive slowly...

BUCKLEY advertisement featuring a cartoon of a man and a woman, with text: 'BUCKLEY... NOW HERE'S A REAL FUNNY ONE!'

Crossword Puzzle

Crossword puzzle grid with clues and answers. Clues include: 'Screen Star', 'Across', 'Down', 'Answer to Today's Puzzle'.

Washington Calling The Prime Minister And Ike

By MARQUIS CHILDS... Washington is calling the Prime Minister and Ike regarding the budget and foreign policy...

Ruth Millett Writes Keep The Brain Exercised In Order To Stay Young

One of the best ways to stay young is to continue to use the brain, says a University of Michigan psychologist...

Letter To Editor

TOWN CREEK WOMAN COMPLAINS WITH U. S. BUREAU OF COINTEGRATION... It means that the Negroes are causing some extra trouble at the present time...

ELSI'S SALE! SA COSTUME JEWELRY NEW SHIPMENT... See our new COSTUME JEWELRY NEW SHIPMENT... Ladies' NYLON TOPPERS... Children's NYLON TOPPERS... Easy and Fitted BOPPERS... LINEN SUITS... Special prices on Ladies' Dress and Children's... 40 CHILD Size 1 to 18. $2.00 and $3.00. Be sure to see...

McCORMACK brings you out This is not a... The buy of a rubber on top reinforced covers. 1 SET 3/5 FOAM BOX SPRINGS MATT $99.50 Value ONLY FURN 322 N. COURT ST.

Classrooms AND Teachers

Congress is properly worrying again about getting the nation enough new classrooms to accommodate its swelling school population. We had better be worried to worry, too, about finding teachers to put in those classrooms when they are built.

To highlight the problem in just the college level, the National Education Association has a new report showing that 40 per cent of them are unfilled faculty vacancies. And the wave of war-born youngsters is only now beginning to hit colleges.

The worst aspect of the matter is that faculty shortages are concentrated in chemistry, physics, mathematics and engineering. These are the very fields where the nation needs more recruits who can keep pace with its scientific competitors in the Communist world.

Earlier studies already have shown that a surprisingly high percentage of U.S. high schools do not offer any courses at all in physics or chemistry. Part of the explanation may lie in lack of student interest. But a good part perhaps lies in the teacher shortage.

Certainly the association report suggests that it indicates that colleges, having largely exhausted other sources of trained personnel, are drawing heavily on high schools to fill gaps in their own teaching ranks.

A vicious circle is thus described. High schools clamor for more teachers, whom the colleges are supposed to train. Partly in the effort to meet this demand, the colleges take teachers from the high schools, aggravating the shortage at that level.

Indications are that the number of college-age individuals in America will be rising steadily for at least the next two decades, and that a higher percentage of these than ever before will actually attend college. Consequently, the schools must be prepared for vastly greater demand on their facilities and resources.

The education association found serious trouble in the current dilemma by hiring often inadequately trained people. Almost half the new teachers employed in the past two years came from sources other than graduate schools. Industrial surplus center for expert teachers.

This country already is sadly short of scientists and engineers to do the work of keeping American capitalism alive and ahead of its deadly competition. The problem can soon become critical for our safety in a hostile world if we do not move to make up the deficiency.

Unless we can cut down on spending, or get increases in revenue we don't dare estimate, there is no room for a tax cut this year.—Treasury Secretary Humphrey... There are well-meaning people who have a so antique that if they want art, they may find a very definite definition of art as a mirror held up to nature... It would be really immoral for us to portray a world that contained only the good and in which evil was never strong or alluring. It would be immoral because it would be untrue.— Cecil B. de Mille, movie producer... Some American universities are little better than educational assembly lines, where ill-trained boys and girls spend four years playing at education.—Harvard Historian Samuel Eliot Morison... I am convinced that there is a considerable minority in any age that is sick with racial hatred.—Methodist Bishop Gerald H. Kennedy of Los Angeles... 'Oh my aching back, I'm glad I'm in politics, oh my I glad I'm in politics. It being a housemaid is a good temporary job to have for a short time.—Rep. T. J. Tamm, 323-pound congressman from New Jersey, who scrubbed floors for two hours as Mrs. Andrew Mellon's housemaid in 'Mothers March on Polio'... The problem is what will be the effect on the president, on the President Eisenhower on his health and whether he will accept the GOP presidential nomination... I think it (Adlai Stevenson running against Vice President Nixon for the presidency) would be something like the great Oklahoma football team—number one in the nation—playing Slippery Rock Teachers' College.—Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D-Okla.), like Stevenson's chances in such a race... I don't quite know what to do about the master switch which will control all the whirring devices; they haven't heard anything from the social scientists whether they should mark the master switch "on" or "hers".... Well, we have some news for the scientists, though it's likely to surprise only the unmarried ones. They can't right ahead today with the houses of tomorrow; no matter how the switches are marked, we know who will pull them.—The Wall Street Journal...