A Rebel in Yanks Camp When The North-South Teams Meet

Montgomery, July 16 — There will be a Rebel in the Yanks' camp when the North and South teams meet in the sixth annual Alabama High School All-Star basketball game August 7 at the University of Alabama.

The seemingly misplaced individual won't be doing spy duty, though. He — J. B. McClelland — will be coaching the North team although he now calls Dothan his home.

McClelland recently resigned his coaching duties at Fayette County High to accept the basketball reins at Dothan High. He'll officially begin his chores at the Houston County school this fall.

The veteran mentor, one of the truly outstanding coaches in the state, earned selection to the All-Star post by guiding his Fayette quintet to the Class AA state championship last season. The Tigers compiled a 26-3 record.

McClelland will share the North All-Star coaching chores with Earl Morris, Austinville's successful young coach. Their rivals from the South will be Elliott Speed of Selma's A. G. Parrish High and Charles Danford of Arton.

The cage classic, at 4 p. m. in Foster Auditorium, and the 11th annual All-Star football game, at 8 p. m. the same day in Denny Stadium, will climax the four-day Alabama Coaches Clinic at the Capstone.

The North-South football and basketball games are sponsored by the Alabama High School Athletic Association and Coaches Association, in cooperation with the University of Alabama, The Birmingham News, and Stations WAPI and WAET.

In point of service, McClelland is the oldest of the four honored basketball coaches. He has been coaching 20 years, first gaining fame at Scotsboro where his 1948-47 and 47-48 teams reached the state tournament.

He directed Fayette County basketballers 8 years and guided them into the state meet the last five.

This is J. B.'s third trip as an All-Star coach. He led the North Eagles to a 58-50 victory in 1956 and was a member of Jimmy Tarrant's North football staff in 1951.

McClelland attended Jackson High School where he earned All-State football and All-District basketball honors. He started three years in each sport at Birmingham's South College.

He coached basketball, football and baseball at Fayette, and tutored many stars including: Fred Thomas, M. V. P., 1943 state turnover; Noel and Joel Barnes, M. V. P.'s 1956 All-Star basketball game; Bob Pinley, James Earl Hubbard, M. V. P., 1956 All-Star football game; and Dorell Estes, M. V. P., 1958 state AA tournament.

His former players now coaching are Pete Ray, Russellville; Johnny Raper, who has moved from McAdory to replace him at Fayette County; Lohrno Cannon, Handley High in Roanoke; Nolan Robertson, Bibb County; Fred Thomas, Woodville; N. C. Hubbard, Vina; and Charles Hopper, Huntsville.

Morris has compiled a phenomenal record during his brief (3 1/2) years of coaching. He has been at Austinville two seasons and led that school to two state titles and a 63-7 record.

Earl played basketball three years at Union Hill High, was a member of the 1950 state championship team, earned All-County and All-District honors in 1951, and captained the lat-

Beards Are Coming Along Nicely Here

Beards are coming along nicely. The greeting "howdy" is replacing how-do-you-do, derbies and bonnets are being intensely sought — all to give Colbert County's "Century of Progress" the proper ring. The centennial celebration will take place Aug 4 and the county populace is becoming quite excited as the time grows "nigh".

Tuscumbia and Sheffield Kiwanis clubs will be in charge of souvenirs for the celebration. They have already placed orders for derbies, ties, and bonnets, identification tags and buttons for the program.

Sheffield Newcomers Club is planning an "Old Settlers Breakfast" in connection with the event.

WINEFORDNER HOLDING MEETING IN CHEROKEE

He played one year at Jacksonville State, then started his coaching career at DAR.

Across the All-Star court will be a couple of winners in Speed and Danford, too. Speed's Selma quintet enjoyed a 23-7 season — Elliott's best-last year and was a runnerup to Fayette County in state play.

EDITORIAL GRIST

"Every Day Is Commencement Day"

A short time ago thousands of young people graduated from school and colleges throughout the Nation. And something said by William Park, chairman of American Stores, should stay in the minds of all of them:

"We must recognize that formal education is not an end in itself. It is rather a period of preparation for the duties of life and the opportunities of a career."

"There is really no time in life where we can say, 'My education is complete.' As we work, we learn; as we learn, we progress; as we advance, we increase in knowledge. So for all of us, whether we are recent graduates from high school or starting retirement, we look forward to new experiences and every day is commencement day."

The Big Bite

When Elfrida von Nardoff ended her 21-week reign in the isolation booth of the quiz show, "Twenty-One," it served as a brusque reminder of how stiff the U. S. income tax law is in the upper brackets.

As the all-time quiz money winner, Elfrida took home a check for $220,500. Yet "take home" is hardly the phrase. She'll be lucky if she gets to keep $50,000. The federal government will take the rest.

In the upper reaches of income, the tax rates come close to being confiscatory. The wonder is that anybody bothers to push his earnings to these levels.

Washington must love the smart ones like Elfrida. You'd think they'd almost be willing to assign bodyguards, or at least plunk down some heavy insurance, to protect 'em until they can make their pile — and pass it on. — Selma Times Journal

The Way To Honest Unionism

Walter Lippmann recently wrote on the need for labor legislation — a need which has been made crystal clear by the sordid evidence produced by the McClelland committee on racketeering.

One current demand is for legislation which would force the unions to adopt more democratic procedures. However, Mr. Lippmann is doubtful if the government could so effectively regulate the 200 national or one of the 60,000 local unions of the nation. "As he sees it, there is not much value in attempting to do what almost certainly can't be done."

That may be true. But the goal of democratic unionism could be reached in another way. That way is the right-to-work law prohibiting compulsory unionism — that is, the closed shop or the shop under it, each worker can freely decide whether or not he wants to join, and the law prevents coercion by either the union or the company. When this is the case, the union must sell itself on the basis of merit, exactly as does any other organization which seeks members and money. The inevitable result would be more honest unions, more effective unions, and more democratic unions.

As a matter of fact, the right-to-work law is the basic cure for union abuses and labor dictatorship. It has to do with principles rather than with details. So long as a union can tell a man to join up or starve, there'll be no freedom for the working people of this country.

Grade School Economics

Supposing you manufactured wheelbarrows and paid $2.00 on an hour for labor. Suppose a labor boss demanded $3.00 an hour without increasing the wheelbarrow output, and in addition demanded that you reduce the price of your wheelbarrow on the shop-work theory that it would increase "purchasing power."

The purchasing power of whom? Not the wheelbarrow maker unless he increased his price more than the dollar an hour wage increase added to his cost. Then the consumer would be stuck as his dollar dropped in purchasing power. Not the workman if the labor boss forced the wheelbarrow manufacturer to price himself out of the market and go broke. Then the workman would be out of a job and lose his purchasing power, as would the manufacturer.

Labor dictators have long been able to force wage boosts without increased production to justify them. The fine-spun argument that this could be done without increasing prices is one of the causes of the buying slow-up today. Their expensive chickens are now coming home to roost and they aren't laying any golden eggs.

Nothing truer was ever said than "one man's wage is another man's cost." That is, as inescapable as the fact that when government spending and government debt go up the value of the dollar goes down.

Segregationist Ministers Are Silent On Issue

Do church pastors who believe in racial segregation clam up on that subject through fear of losing their jobs or missing better positions or promotions in the future? Such a charge was made in less direct words in Little Rock recently by a two-time president of the Alabama Baptist Convention, Dr. Henry L. Lyon of Montgomery.

Lyon, an outspoken segregationist, said that proponents of integration have created an atmosphere in the churches which makes preachers who hold differing views "believe their ministerial future doomed if they speak out on the subject."

Negro churches are fully established forums for promoting integration. White integrationist pastors and church officials are heard from frequently, they do not seem to be intimidated. If racial integration or segregation is a question of Christian duty or practice, as the negroes and integrationists declare it to be, are not ministers who believe in separation failing their duty when they remain silent?

Integrationists are infiltrating the churches and working their way up to positions of authority, the Alabama paper declared. If ministers fail to protect their congregations from the effects of this infiltration, he said, then laymen should organize and make their protests felt.

Lyon was speaking in Little Rock before a meeting sponsored by the Capital Citizens Council. He declared that integration is un-Christian, and that segregation is "the commandment and the law of God." He feels that other ministers should speak up in the same way he has and if they fail to do so, their segregation-mined church members should protest.

Increase Use Of Aluminum Is Noted

The increased use of aluminum alloys in automobiles will mean greater utilization of the local Ford plant facilities according to Bob Dwyer, Production Manager of the Ford Road plant speaking at the Sheffield Rotary Club. An employment figure of 1,000 is possible in the future. This would necessitate a larger plant at the present location. Mr. Dwyer was assisted by Mr. Worely Mullins in showing slides of the Ford plant facilities and operations. Mr. Dwyer was introduced by Mr. Pat Jeffreys.

Guests at the luncheon were Mr. Bill Wells of Florence and Mr. Harry Dunean, Visiting Rotarians were Mr. John Elmore, Birmingham; Mr. John Powe, Decatur; Mr. Harry McNeill, Marietta, Ga., and Mr. Bill Paxton of Florida.

President George Tarbox of Sheffield Rotary announced that the club is nominating Carl Salter, Jr. for the Rotary International Overseas Scholarship. Mr. Salter will enter his senior year at North Carolina State College, majoring in nuclear physics and is near the top of his class in grades.
