

Negro Tenant Dies With Prayer On His Lips

RAY SPRINGS, Miss., Feb. 15.—A Negro tenant farmer died in the electric chair here today, an unrepentant prayer on his lips.

"Oh, Lord, O"—murmured K. C. Newell, 41, as the first charge of electricity hit him. He was pronounced dead three minutes later. He had made no statement.

Newell, father of two sons, was convicted of the murder of J. Paul Ford, Forest, Sims, district attorney, farmer and cottonman in 1929. The prosecution said testimony was the motive.

Newell contended the killing was done in the heat of an argument and that he feared Sims was about to attack him.

Mobile's Harbor Line Extended Some 35 Miles

MOBILE, Ala.—Extension of Mobile's official harbor line some 35 miles to the Gulf of Mexico today strengthened state docks' claims to jurisdiction of lease rentals.

Docks director Leonard Hayd's proclamation of the enlargement of the Army engineers had defined the harbor extension line around a much smaller area in Mobile river and upper Mobile bay.

Hayd said the state docks already had been exercising jurisdiction out to the Gulf in actual practice. His action was taken under a 1927 law giving authority to define the jurisdiction of the Alabama department of state docks and ferries.

The state recently granted jurisdiction of about 3000 acres of water in Mobile bay and adjacent Gulf waters to the Alabama department of state docks and ferries.

James Anthony Green, Albert A. Green and the state docks department have been in dispute over the jurisdiction of the state docks and ferries department.
