Russian Bomber Was Shot Down By U. S. Planes

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The Navy acknowledged today that two of its fighter planes shot down the Russian bomber off Korea on Monday.

The first official report was that American planes knocked off the twin-engine Soviet craft when the U. S. charged it attempted to attack United Nations naval forces.

At the time the incident was first reported the State Department said the bomber "opened fire upon a U. N. fighter patrol, which returned the fire and shot it down."

A Navy spokesman at a briefing session for newsmen in the Pentagon identified the fighter planes as two Navy corsairs attached to the 12th fighter wing, which returned to the States after a training flight and was unharmed.

The Navy spokesman said the action took place about 30 miles from the center of the Korean peninsula in the vicinity of the Russian plane. Moscow also reported in the fight. Moscow also commended the destroyer bomber as a training flight and was unharmed.

The Navy's report cleared up previous indications that the British naval vessel had been involved in the action in the vicinity of the Soviet bomber, which was shot down.
